

Abstract of Disclosure

A wood-drilling apparatus includes a table, a wall, at least one cylinder, a jig and at least one drill. The wall is installed on the table. The cylinder is vertically movably mounted on the wall. The cylinder defines an inclined passageway. The jig is installed on the table for pushing a workpiece against the cylinder. The drill is movably inserted in the inclined passageway for drilling the workpiece.